USE OF GENERATIVE AI IN SCHOLARSHIP APPLICATIONS

To uphold the integrity and authenticity of the scholarship application process, we recognize the evolving role of Generative AI (GenAI) tools such as ChatGPT, Gemini, Grammarly, etc. in academic and creative work. While these tools can be helpful, their use in scholarship applications must be limited and transparent.

Applicants may use GenAI tools to brainstorm ideas, develop an outline, and general proofreading. However, the core content of your essays must be written by you, the applicant, and reflect your personal experiences and voice. Note that over-reliance on AI-generated content often results in essays that appear overly generic and impersonal and may negatively impact the success of your application.

By submitting your application, you affirm that any essays reflect your own work and that any use of GenAI has been limited to the acceptable purposes outlined above.
